“Los Angeles County Fire Department Launches new Website Address”

On Tuesday February 6, 2007, the Los Angeles County Fire Department launched an updated web address, www.fire.lacounty.gov. This website provides important information to residents on various Department resources, ranging from locating local fire stations to messages on safety preparedness, CERT Training, and Firefighter Recruitment . The site also provides the most current and up-to-date top stories happening within the Los Angeles County Fire Department. Local and National media outlets may also access the site for new story ventures and reporting interest.

The Los Angeles County Fire Department is committed to delivering and informing the general public of current information, keeping in step with today's technology.

Additional information can be obtained by contacting Public Affairs Section at (323) 881-2411.
